

The Circle of Thanksgiving

The blue bead represents the ocean that brought the Pilgrims to America.

The black bead represents those who died on the way.

The white bead represents the purity of land in America.

The orange and yellow beads represent foods that were grown.

The red bead represents the spirit of heart and hard work.

The purple bead represents thankfulness and gratitude.

String the beads together on a piece of yarn. Tie the ends together to create a "circle of thanksgiving" to last the year through.
